Rheumatism

Though painful and wearing almost beyond endurance, is not an incurable disease if treated in time. Perhaps no other disease has so long been a mystery. A remedy has been discovered in this, but at last a remedy has been discovered in which CURES RHEUMATISM. This is and is nearly endorsed by many of the leading Physicians.

SAVED HER LIFE.

Mr. J. McLEWIS Co., Ga.
Dear Sir—I have seen several letters of your Female Regulator for falling of the womb and other diseases combined, of sixteen years' standing, and I really believe I have cured entirely, for which please accept my heartfelt thanks and most profound gratitude. I know your medicine saved my life, so you see I cannot speak too highly in its favor. I have recommended it to several of my friends who are suffering as I was.

Yours very respectfully,

Mrs. W. E. STEBBINS.

TESTED A QUARTER OF A CENTURY—IT STANDS UNRAVEDLED.

Mr. J. BRADFIELD, Atlanta, Ga.: Dear Sir—I take pleasure in telling you that I have tried, for the last twenty years, the medicine you are now putting up, known as Dr. Bradfield's Female Regulator, and consider it the best combination ever gotten together for the disease for which it is recommended. With kindest regards I am, respectfully,

W. B. FERRELL, M. D.

ATLANTA, Ga.
Dr. J. BRADFIELD: Dear Sir—Some fifteen years ago I examined the recipe of Dr. Price's Baking Powder, and carefully studied its properties in regard to its constituents, and then (as well as now) pronounce it to be the most scientific and skillful combination of the really reliable remedial vegetable agents known to science, to act directly on the womb and uterine organs, and the organs and parts sympathizing directly with these; and, therefore, providing a specific remedy for all diseases of the womb, and of the adjacent organs and parts.

Yours truly,

Jesse Boring, M. D., D. D.

THE NEWS IN FULL
The fall of Khartoum is the most momentous and important event in the world's history since the election of CLEVELAND, if, indeed, it is not more far-reaching in its consequences and effects. At any rate it is the news of the day, and we cannot refrain from calling attention to the fresh illustration it furnishes of the familiar fact that the great events of contemporary history are first given to the people of the world through the POST-DISPATCH.

Our account of yesterday was so full and complete that the papers this morning have nothing to add in the way of news. The only additions they make to our report are not facts, but mere views, opinions and comments.

TO-DAY we give the news again. Our report tells of the situation to-day. We give the news that WOLSELEY has telegraphed from Korti that the enemy at Metemneh has become defiant; that an attack may be looked for on Gubat at any time; that the Cabinet council has announced its decision to prosecute the war vigorously; that reinforcements of Indian troops and of garrisons from the Mediterranean have been ordered to Suakin, and that the Government will sanction any movements of Lord WOLSELEY, and that it is his cousin to the Queen.

JUST at present we fancy the people of England do not appreciate the advantage of having the post of Commander-in-Chief filled by an imbecile old duffer whose only military merit is that he is cousin to the Queen.

THE most brilliant fest of journalism in connection with the taking of Khartoum was the publication by the Globe-Democrat of a map of the River Nile which includes an accurate representation of Lord WOLSELEY's route up the Nile. The map leads us to infer that Lord WOLSELEY walked on the towpath.

In other words, the POST-DISPATCH gives the news not only in advance of the morning papers, but it gives it so fully that they have nothing to add. Our extra was on the street yesterday before noon, and the demand for yesterday's paper showed how eager was the demand which we supplied.

INDIAN EMPIRE and the European balance of power are involved in the new settlement of the Eastern question that is now forced upon the great Powers.

EL MARDI'S MISSION.

In the innumerable more or less unintelligent comments upon late events in the Soudan, far too much stress is laid upon the religious character of EL MARDI, by way of explaining the remarkable success of his career up to the present time. This explanation not only fails to explain, but is actually misleading as regards the most essential point of the situation.

EL MARDI is unquestionably playing the part of "Prophet," and thereby increases and intensifies his influence among the masses; but scores of fanatics have done the same in Mohammedan countries since the real Prophet of Islam vanished from the scene, without accomplishing anything of substantial importance. What EL MARDI has done or may do of such importance, is not as a religious leader so much as a political one. He combines the two and utilizes them both, but his greatest power lies in the fact that he represents the independence of his nation, and is recognized as the consecrated champion of the national cause in the struggle against foreign domination. It must be remembered that the so-called "rebellion" in the Soudan broke out before England had decisively interfered in the affairs of Egypt; and was directed against, and inspired by, Egyptian tyranny—and nothing else. The Soudanese have always been restive under the yoke imposed by MEHMET ALI, and his successors have never held more of that vast region than the scattered Egyptian garrisons could cover. The rebellion would have occurred when and as it did if Egypt had remained undisturbed by outside parties; if KHEDIVE ISMAIL, instead of the present British prophet, had continued to hold the reins of government.

THE British situation is rendered all the more difficult by the sad lack of military talent at home. England has a Marquis for Secretary of War and a Royal Duke for Commander-in-Chief, but when it comes to real fighting they have less sense than an ordinary Arab sheik.

The military resources of England are in the hands of men without brains, and the military bravery of England is in a position where it can not make use of the resources.

THE Republican, in an article which is lurid with picturesque and variegated falsehood, attempes to question the services of Mr. GIBSON to his party and to his country. Mr. GIBSON has done those things which the Colonels have left undone, and he has left undone those things which the Colonels have done. He did go to Louisiana eight years ago, when his country needed his services there, and he did go to Albany last month on an office-hunting expedition.

ENGLISH anxiety in regard to the situation in the Soudan is greatly intensified by the fact that some of the finest, and also most aristocratic, regiments in the British army are represented there. Probably more London "society men," titled and untitled, are in WOLSELEY'S command than have been in active service together since Waterloo. A wholesale slaughter of the troops "tips" and "divides" and "wakes-up"

as the legitimate perquisites of public trusts and official positions. It would be presumptuous in clerks and doorkeepers to assume a higher virtue than the body they serve.

THE water gas people are greatly elated over the opinion of City Counselor BELL that their right to operate may come by a decision of the Supreme Court in a case now pending. We are very decidedly and emphatically opposed to giving anything away to the water gas people or to any other corporation, but if they can get a fair grip on the old monopoly and throw it out of the way, we will be glad to let them do what they can do.

THE British situation is rendered all the more difficult by the sad lack of military talent at home. England has a Marquis for Secretary of War and a Royal Duke for Commander-in-Chief, but when it comes to real fighting they have less sense than an ordinary Arab sheik.

not make use of the resources.

THE Republican Picture of Cleveland.

Albany Correspondence Chicago Tribune.

Instead of inviting me up to his room Mr. Cleveland came down to the hall. His appearance and his manner soon made me forget my disappointment.

In fact, he made me almost forget that I was in the presence of the next President. After greeting me in a cheery, winning way, he stood up by the fire, leaning on the mantel shelf, and talked about times and people in Buffalo I happened to be familiar with as if we were talking of old acquaintance, and not betraying in the slightest danger any consciousness of my efforts to make him aware, as it were, from the standpoint of a political opponent.

WE should meet Cleveland without knowing who he was, could not for a moment suspect him of being the chosen leader of this great nation.

There is nothing commanding, nothing extraordinary in his outward appearance than the greatness of his position may soon or later discover a strong resemblance in face and bearing between Cleveland and Bismarck is more than probable, but does not detract from the truthfulness of the portrait I have endeavored to draw.

THE Lobby at Home.

Washington Correspondence Chicago Tribune.

Mr. Sherwood, the chief of the Huntington lobby, with one or two assistants, lurked in ambush all the afternoon about the Senate, watching the proce-edures of that body with feverish interest. Notwithstanding the strict regulations governing the surroundings of the Senate Chamber, Sherwood appeared to have no difficulty in going where he pleased, except upon the floor of the Senate itself. He was in the marble room most of the afternoon, where only the special friends of the Senator are allowed to go. The Senate discussed all the afternoon the commission plan, as the substitute for the Bregan bill. Senator Van Wyck said:

"It will pass the commission, because it means nothing. They will send the subject then to a conference committee. The result will be nothing.

The railroads, I tell you, are too strong over here for anything against them ever to get through. This seems to be commendable, and by no means premature. The telephone business is a chartered monopoly that is evidently very profitable, and upon it rests the onus of proving that its charges are not exorbitant and its receipts not a huge multiple of the reasonable compensation to which it is entitled for its services. The bill in question limits the charge for telephones to a maximum of $3 a month, where a single instrument is rented, and to $3 50 each where more than one is used by the same individual, company or corporation. It also provides that not more than fifteen cents shall be charged for the first five minutes and five cents for each additional five minutes, where the telephone is used for conversation between two cities or villages. This telephone service is a public service, enjoying a franchise which imposes on it the duty of serving the public at fair rates, and it is the duty of the Legislature to take care that the rates charged shall be reasonable.

is the discouraging end of Congress, but you wait until next Wednesday if you want to see some fun. What is the fun? We are going to go for the Jay Gould bill that has been reported by the Judiciary Committee. That beautiful scheme to rearrange the Pacific Railroad loans. What is the object of wasting breath in talking about making arrangements with people who never have paid the slightest attention to their obligation? If they had complained in the slightest degree with the Thurnau act, then might have been some sense in talking about this measure; but you wait; we will see it higher than that.

At almost the very time when Mr. Gladstone was penning his manly and loyal letter to the young Prince of Wales, his colleague the Right Honorable "Joe" Chamberlain is said to have listened with a cynical smile to the hisses at the name of the Queen at the banquet in his honor at Birmingham. Billy Magr, which is his name as written in his little "Breeches" Bible.

In the Reichstag recently Prince Bismarck listened to some complimentary remarks attributing to him the chief honor of the unification of Germany, then, turning with a bow toward Count Molke, "The Silent," said, "Nay; to him far more than to me is due the union of the Fatherland."

At almost the very time when Mr. Gladstone was penning his manly and loyal letter to the young Prince of Wales, his colleague the Right Honorable "Joe" Chamberlain is said to have listened with a cynical smile to the hisses at the name of the Queen at the banquet in his honor at Birming-

The Tribune says: "Cleveland's visit to the city, thus far, occasions little remark except upon the large number of Southerners and rebel brigadiers which have flocked about him at the Hotel Victoria. The claims of the different parts of the country for representation in the next session, very much upon the President-elect from many small but not understood that he gave any sign of the selection of the Southern delegation. The common remark of callers was that Mr. Cleveland was a good listener, but a poor talker. This is a good information for New Yorkers, at any rate.
